THE DISENTHRALLED.

He had bowed down to drunkenness,
An abject worshipper;
The power of manhood's pride had gone,
Too vain and cold to stir;
And he had given his spirit up
Unto the humbug thrall;
And bowing to the poisoned cup,
He gloried in his fall.

There came a change—the cloud rolled off
And light fell on his brain—
And like the passing of a dream
That cometh not again,
The shadow of his spirit fled,
He saw the gulf before—
He shuddered at the waste behind—
And was a man once more.

He shook the serpent's folds away,
That gathered round his heart,
As shakes the swaying forest oak,
Its poison vine apart;
He stood erect—returning pride
Grew terribly within;
And Conscience sat in judgment on
His most familiar sin.

The light of intellect again
Along his pathway shone;
And Reason, like a monarch, stood,
Upon its golden throne;
The honored and the wise once more
Within his presence came—
And lingered oft on lovely lips
His once forbidden name.

There may be glory in the might
That treadeth nations down—
Wreaths for the crimson conqueror—
Arise for the kingly crown—
But glorious is that triumph hour
The disenthralled shall find,
When evil passion boweth down
Unto the Godlike mind.

John G. Whittier.

History of the 49th Pennsylvania.

BY A. B. HUTCHISON, Late Captain of Company "C."

First day's fighting in front of Richmond—Our experience on June 27th—Fremont ordered line to Savage Station June 28th and 29th—March to White Oak Swamp—humor—White Oak Swamp—March to Malvern Hill—Battle of Malvern Hill—Night operations in the Rain—March to Harrison's Landing—A night in the Mud—General McClellan at the Landing—Shelled by the Enemy—Movement to the new Position—He issued Gold Order—General McClellan's Order.

About noon, very suddenly and unexpectedly, the rebels opened fire upon us from a battery just behind the swamp. Our teams and rear-guard had just got over, and were still in full view, and exposed to the fire. The train, however, was moved off in an incredibly short space of time, and we were quickly in a position to dispute a further advance.—We destroyed the bridge over the swamp, and prepared to hold our energetic foes to their work for that day, at least. There was little fighting except between the artillery, so far as our division were concerned, but we could hear heavy firing on our left, which, we were informed, was the Penn'a Reserves, engaging, and as we were told, whipping the enemy. After this, the affair had a very different look, for we learned the facts. All sorts of good and bad news was retailed from man to man; now that our army was about to commence a triumphant advance, or be surrounded or dispersed, as the humor of their authors dictated. One private soldier would unfold, very minutely, the secret and wonderful strategy, which would place us in Richmond in a day, and another tell us of approaching disaster, betrayal and distress. The one thing that was incomprehensible, alike in both was, that we could not retreat like a defeated army, being still unharmed, and that our strategetical retreat was ever hasty and reckless to be speedily changed into an advance. On the night of June 30th, however, as soon as it became dark, the division was massed quietly at a point on our line, and, with the booming of one heavy piece, which still sent its defiance to the enemy across the swamp, for music, and the flames of abandoned wagons for our light, we moved off for the river. The scene, as we marched out, was sublime in the extreme, one never to be forgotten by its witnesses. But our march to night was long and rapid, circuituous and wearisome in the extreme. Worn out by what we had done before—robbed of sleep, and dispirited by retreat, we plodded silently along the sandy roads, through fields and forests, ever watching for the long looked-for river, haven of our promised rest. But no river yet, though morning's dawn is streaking the eastern sky, and a moments pause is seized as a moments sleep.

About daylight, the regiment having halted, and all fallen asleep just as they sat down in their places, one of those incomprehensible things, called a "panic," was inaugurated somewhere in the column, by a vicious or frightened horse, running over some of the sleeping men. Quick as lightning the panic spread through the whole line, and all under the sudden alarm, half awake, and confusion only of some danger, ran, in confusion, towards the woods. A single moment, however, sufficed to discover the truth, and, laughing at their fears, the men returned to their places in the line. Had it been a real attack, at such a time, probably it would have ended in our discomfiture, and yet it was one of those things which can neither be explained, nor provided against.

Finally we were halted near the river, and it rested to take some rest. We learned here that our division had marched by a long detour, and that during the night the enemy were supposed to be between us and the remainder of the army. Here, however, we found the rest of our comrades, and there appeared no signs of the enemy. To us, our continued retreat when every division boasted of its repulse of the enemy, wherever he had appeared, was still inexplicable, and still dispiriting; but now the river was in sight, and our faith was then great in gunboats, and as the enemy's fear of them was a lively one, we looked for rest. Too tired and sleepy to cook or eat, though it was now daylight, we lay down to sleep in an open field. Soon the sun's rays became too warm to sleep out of the shade, and from their effects, we rose up with that half sick feeling one has who sleeps in the hot sun. In a short time we were moved off to the right, and our line of battle established, and batteries planted in a wheat field. We had a quiet day, although elsewhere our comrades fought and won the battle of Malvern Hill. We only heard the guns and cheers, no enemy having appeared on our lines.

As evening came on, the firing ceased, and the glad news of our complete success was cheered all along the lines, as was also the Maj. General commanding, as he rode along the lines in the evening. We expected now that our retreat would be ended, and hoped for a night of rest and sleep, as sleep or rest, during the day, in the sun, at this season, was impossible. But when darkness came on, so, too, did the order to move, and the column was soon again in motion. After a very short march, we found our way blocked by the troops of the Penn'a Reserve Corps, who passed by us during the night. Soon after midnight it began to rain, and we sat in the edge of the woods by the roadside waiting our turn in the column of march. The rain increased, and morning dawned, as we got fairly under way. As soon as our march commenced, we drove the trains from the roads, and the troops pushed on to the river in parallel columns, through the fields and woods. The mud was deep and liquid, and our drenched columns all trending, in apparent disorder, to some point, had more vividly to the eye, the appearance of an army in retreat, as we had previously conceived of it, than any of the scenes we had before passed through. Although our march was not a long one, the men were very tired, when at last we halted in the wheatfield at Harrison's Landing. Here, on the wide plain, was massed the entire army, crowded together in the mud. Our arms were stacked, and the nearest fences and building seized upon as fuel. Supplies were being landed, and as the clouds broke away, the men began to try to fix up tents, and find means to secure a place to lie down to sleep, some by gathering rails, and some by digging up the fresh clay from beneath the mud. When night came, most were stretched on or in the mud, and slept all night, for the first time in many days. We had scarcely got well aroused next morning, and commenced to congratulate ourselves on the end of our present trials, when again we heard the cannon, and saw shells burst near our troops. At first, things looked squally enough, for our enemies seemed wonderfully persistent and confident.

Very soon we were under marching orders and were speedily wading through the tough mud toward the front again. Our progress was very slow, many men losing their shoes in the deep and wonderfully adhesive compound, made up of Virginia soil and a wheat crop. After considerable wading in the mud, we found what was called Herring creek, thereby disposing of some of our mud, and were soon in position on the other side of it, and near where our fortifications were afterwards built. Here we spent the day and night. Next day was the Fourth of July. Our National Holiday seemed, in little, to differ from the rest, for we were kept in line of battle, or busy at work. One cannot help remembering how differently we had expected to celebrate this anniversary of our independence—hoping to accomplish the great object of our toils, and celebrate a new birth of our glorious country.

On this day General Wm. F. Smith published what was afterward known as his "refined gold" order; a congratulatory order, complimenting his command for their conduct in the past campaign, and directing the names of those men who came safely and faithfully through, all with their proper commands, to be recorded and filed in their several States, calling them "refined gold." A large number of the 49th Pa., nearly all, in fact, have their names inscribed on this roll of honor.

We also received an order from Gen'l McClellan, in which he characterized his late retreat as a strategic movement, a change of front, or base, and promised his army that they should yet "walk the streets of the so-called confederate Capital." Our reflections on the seven days in front of Richmond, and camp at Harrisons Landing, must form another chapter. Our General thanked us for all we did; we may have done all we could, though many of us now believe that we wasted our opportunities in the Peninsular campaign, and failed more from our own mistakes, than from the superior qualities or numbers of our enemies.

A LITTLE four-year-old child, in Portland, told his father he was a fool. On being reprimanded by his mother, and required to say he was sorry, he toddled up to his insulted parent and exclaimed: "Papa, I'm sorry you's a fool."

Missouri.

Since the war the State of Missouri has moved steadily and rapidly forward. Her population is nearly two million. Great improvements are visible. The common school system of Massachusetts has been adopted; emigration is pouring in from all quarters; railroads are building on every side; villages are growing to the dimensions of large towns and towns are expanding into cities. St Louis numbers 250,000 inhabitants; Kansas City, 35,000; St Joseph, 30,000; Hannible, 15,000; Sedalia, 7,000; Chillicothe, 6 000; Boonville, 5,000; Macon, 5,000; Columbia, 5,000.

Corn, wheat, rye, oats, hemp, flax and tobacco are raised in the greatest abundance. The great prairies of the State are suitable for grazing nine months in the year. Apples, peaches, pears, apricots, plums, and all manner of fruit, is abundant. Raspberries, strawberries, blackberries and currants grow to the largest size. Potatoes, turnips, cabbages, beets, and melons of all kinds, equal those of California.

The mineral regions of the State extend over an area of over three thousand square miles. Pilot Knob and Iron Mountain are huge mountains of almost pure iron; lead, coal, marble, and white sand of the best quality, for making glass are found in almost every section of the State. Our coal field would supply the whole world for more than a hundred years.

Common schools are provided for by law in every township, and are free to all. The State University, a large and flourishing institution, is located in Columbia, a beautiful town of five thousand inhabitants, and famous for its great schools.—Among these are two large colleges for young women, several seminaries, and the largest and best appointed colored schools in the West. Columbia is the county town of Broome county, thirty miles distant from Jefferson City, the capital of the State. Two railroads centre here. A rich and growing country surrounds the city; trade is flourishing; buildings are rapidly growing up, beautiful streets are opening in every quarter, graded, macadamized and paved. In short, Columbia bids fair to become a large and thriving town, a famous place in State history, the educational centre of Missouri, and the Cambridge of the Great West.—N. Y. Ev Post.

THE GOODNESS OF GOD.—"God is love" said the Apostle of love; and twice I have also heard the same; or twice dropped that voice of consolation from the firmament of Holy Scripture,—"God is love." Every phase of human affection—the parent's anxious solicitude and tender yearning, the charities of the common hearth, the brother's enthusiastic support, the bosom friend's warm response to confidence—all are mere straggling rays of His infinite light; feeble, partial emanations from the fulness of love, which in Him is wrapt up. What are the evidences of this love of God? They are written on the face of nature and on the face of Scriptures. Every fragmentary gleam of happiness which glances across the path of men is a testimony of the love of God to a fallen world. We taste His goodness in the many enjoyments which He has strewed around the way-side of our daily life, in the fair land-scape, in the morning prime, in the music of birds, in the diversified beauty of the seasons. Scripture represents Him as caring for the fatherless and widow; ministering at the bed-side of the sick; wiping away the tears from the eyes of the afflicted; and while He rolls the planet along his fiery path, healing the broken in heart, and giving medicine to heal their sickness.

But all these manifestations of love are feeble, dim, inadequate; the starlight glimmerings of Divine goodness, not the going forth of that goodness, in its noon-day strength. Look at the Cross once more, and view it now in the light of that oracle: "He loved us, and sent His Son to be the propitiation for our sins."—Goulburn.

THE BOY WITH A STRAW HAT.—A crippled beggar was striving to pick up some old cloths that had been thrown from a window, when a crowd of rude boys gathered about him, mimicking his awkward movements. Presently a noble little fellow came up, and pushing through the crowd, helped the poor crippled man to pick up his gifts, and placed them in a bundle. Then, slipping a piece of silver into his hands, he was running away, when a voice from above him said, "Little boy with a straw hat, look up!" A lady leaning from an upper window, said earnestly, "God bless you, my little fellow! God will bless you for that!" As he walked away he thought how glad he had made his own heart by doing good. He thought of the poor beggar's grateful look; of the lady's smiles and her approval; and last, and better than all, he could almost hear his heavenly Father whispering, "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy."

Little reader, when you have an opportunity of doing good, and feel tempted to neglect it, remember the little boy with the straw hat.

PUNCH says:—"Women are said to have stronger attachment than men. It is evinced in little things. A man is often attached to an old hat; but did you ever know of a woman having an attachment for an old bonnet?" Echo answers "never."

"The Railroad Question.

"J. R. ORWIG, Dear Sir:—I am rejoiced to witness the general enthusiasm of the citizens along the line of the proposed Railroad from Lewisburg to Bellefonte. If any one will take the trouble to examine a State map he will see that this route lies very directly in a line between New York city and the West, by way of either the Catawissa road and its eastern connections, or one of the Sunbury roads, and its eastern connections. It seems almost certain that the result of the present great Railroad war for favorable connections with the Union Pacific Railroad must result in the construction of a new line from the Susquehanna, in Union county, westward to Bellefonte, Clearfield, Brookville, Clarion, Franklin, &c. It is a direct line through our great State, and by many miles shorter than the circuitous route the trade of the west is now compelled to take over the Pennsylvania road, by way of Pittsburg Harrisburg, Philadelphia to New York, or by way of Erie, Salamanca, Elmira, and the Erie road to New York.

This question is now being discussed by the Pittsburg and other western papers, while the Philadelphia papers seem to be jealous of the trade that might thus be diverted from that city. The Railroad and Mining Register, I observe, is in favor of the new line as it runs westward as Clearfield, but recommends a connection northward with the Philadelphia Erie Road. But the natural route points through Union and Centre counties, and Philadelphia interests are very widely, if they hope to maintain the western trade by such means. Their true interests lie in another direction. They should tap the trade east of the great anthracite coal fields, and coast-it right again the fate, which point so clearly to the direct route. I hope your citizens, and those of Lewisburg and Bellefonte, will see to it that these Railroad interests will be represented at the Millheim meeting, on the 15th of April, and then, if the citizens along the line manifest a proper interest, no doubt a plan can be agreed upon to put this part of the line, from Lewisburg to Bellefonte, under contract in a very short time.

"Much depends upon the energy and liberality of the citizens of Union and Centre counties. Will they be wise to see their interests?

Scene in a Boston Street Car.

Travelers in the horse cars witness many amusing scenes, as for instance:

(Time 9 P M weather cold, car half full of chilled and impatient passengers; enter individual by the front door, which he leaves open after him, and passing by the other passengers takes a seat at the rear end of car.)

Indignant passenger near the door.—"There is a door at the front end of this car, sir."

New Comer—"So there is at the rear end."

I. P.—"Very true; and that's the door by which gentlemen enter."

N. C.—"I'm not accustomed to do shutting, sir."

I. P.—"People that live in saw-mills never are."

N. C.—"Will you take off your hat, sir, that I can see who you are—or shall I knock it off yer head?"

I. P.—"Don't trouble yourself sir, (raising his hat), now will you take your's off?"

N. C.—"No, I won't."

I. P.—"I knew you wouldn't before I asked, and know the reason, too."

N. C. (excitedly)—"Knew the reason, sir—what reason—if you know so much, why won't I take off my hat?"

I. P.—"Because there would be a display of bristles instead of hair."

The explosion of laughter from the other passengers at this last rally, proved that the new comer had the worst of it, and he wisely shut up.—Commercial Bulletin

The Student and His True Position

BY F. W. C.

Could the summit be gained at one step, but few would remain at the foot. Yet, information obtained in this way, would avail the possessor but little. The frail plant that springs into existence between the setting and rising of the sun, is of short duration. The delicate parts, of which it is composed, are unable to endure the scorching rays of the noon-day sun, and they soon wither and die. But the mighty oak upon which we gaze with so much wonder and admiration, is the work of time. Ages have elapsed since the seed from which sprang that massive trunk was committed to the earth. Many are the storms and winds with which it has battled. Yet it has proudly maintained its position, and is properly styled the monarch of the sylvan race. Thus it is with the mind of the student. It cannot become matured in an instant. It requires time and determination. In the first place, a desire to improve must be ingrafted in the heart. Then onward, and upward, must be the motto; keeping the desire ever fresh in the mind—resolved to advance, cost what it may.

We are prone to look to men who grace the most lofty ranks of eminence, and sigh that we are not thus gifted; sigh that the God of nature has not endowed us with corresponding talents. This, instead of being an obstacle, should stimulate us to greater exertion. We should look up to such men as worthy of imitation; press onward with renewed diligence, and we shall succeed. As the young shoot, which has been implanted in the mind, becomes visible, it must be carefully nourished. Study, unceasing, self-denying study, must invigorate it. Perseverance and industry must keep it in its proper shape. The light must prune it, and, if necessary, it must be watered with the tears of adversity. If our efforts to improve the mind, in order to become distinguished in any sphere, are limited to an earnest wish—a longing desire, our hopes are destined to be blasted. But by a vigorous exertion of all the powers of both mind and body, our object may be gained. We must dig deep to find the gem. Thick is the covering that hides it from our view. Many are the obstacles that will be presented to hinder our advancement. Yet, when the soul is once determined, obstacles, instead of impeding our progress, serve as a stimulus. Onward is the word.—May this be ours, and be inscribed on the tablets of our hearts. Now is the time. We are in the morning of life.—The hour of youth—that period in life of the most rapid import

General Jail Delivery.

The new jail it seems will not hold prisoners. In this respect it is no better than the old one. What was it built for? For use or ornament? The tax-payers of Centre county will not soon forget the hue and cry that was raised against the old jail. It was worthless. Prisoners were constantly breaking out. In fact, the Democratic "powers that be" contended that the old jail was not only a disgrace to the county, but of no use at all, and threatened that if they did not get permission to build a new one, they would be compelled to send the prisoners to be kept in the jail of some other county, which could only be done at a very heavy expense to the tax-payers. These arguments often made and persistantly repeated gained the approbation of the Grand Jury and the Court and permission was given the Democratic Commissioners to build a new jail. It is true they were constantly crying out against high taxes, extravagance &c. &c., but their action in this matter proved that there was no honesty or heart in the cry. The plea was that of the demagogue, the tears, if any, were crocodile tears.

They had succeeded in obtaining power to build a new jail. It must be no mediocre affair. It must be a building of huge proportions, magnificent and grand—an ornament to the town, an honor to the county. No home mechanic was considered good enough or smart enough to execute the draft for this grand building, therefore our home mechanics were ignored, and the talent of some distinguished Philadelphian was called into requisition, and an extra price paid for a very poor draft—far inferior to that drawn by our fellow townsman, Geo. W. Tate. A day was appointed for the letting, and the contract was awarded to Charles McAfferty and Jno. McDermitt for the sum of $45.700. We are informed that they followed the Philadelphia draft in every particular, except so far as the County Commissioners changed it for the purpose, as they alledged of improving the plan. All the changes made and the work rendered necessary by said changes, were charged, and paid for as extra work. What the new jail really did cost, it has never been our pleasure or that of the tax-payers of Centre to know. The amount paid under the head of extras has been carefully witheld.

If the contractors followed the draft or worked in accordance with the changes made and the instructions given by the Democratic Commissioners, we cannot see that any blame can attach to them. If they did not follow the Philadelphia draft and the new jail proves a failure still no blame can attach to them for the reason that the commissioners assumed the responsibility by accepting the work, thereby declaring it a good job.

If it was a good job, if it was finished in a workmanlike manner as it should have been for the amount of money expended in its erection, how comes it to pass that it will not hold prisoners more securely than did the old jail. Have the tax-payers been imposed upon and $45,000 or $55,000 of their hard earned money thrown away on a great stone pile—perfectly useless except as an ornament to the town, and a neat residence for the Sheriff? This appears to be the truth in the matter. Twice have the prisoners escaped, and twice have we seen hand bills by the Sheriff offering a "Reward" for prisoners escaped from the new jail.

On Monday or Tuesday night of last week all the prisoners escaped, making a general jail delivery, leaving Sheriff Kline alone in his glory. Two negros and one white man we believe made their escape.

Tax payers of Centre county, you have been hood winked, bam boozled, cheated, swindled by this sham Democracy about long enough. It is high time that you would open your eyes and look at things just as they are. We know that you would place no confidence in the business capacity of any man who would manage his own business as recklessly as your Democratic officials have managed the affairs of this county. Your only hope is to strike off the shackles of party and leave the sham Democracy forever.

A GOOD LAW.—The silly and dangerous practice of joking with firearms will prove a rather expensive business in Mich., hereafter. The Legislature of that State has passed an act imposing a fine of not more than fifty and not less than five dollars upon any one "who shall intentionally, without malice, point or aim any fire arm at any other person." The discharging of a firearm, even when it does not occasion injury, is punished with a fine of one hundred dollars, and not less than one year's imprisonment.

ENGLAND, like Germany, is ready to acknowledge the right of all inhabitants of a country to give up their allegiance to their native land, and to acquire citizenship in the country to which they may emigrate. The Royal Commissioners have just made a report in favor of recognizing naturalization as alienating British subjects from their allegiance to England.

The Watchman on the Rampage.

The Editors of the Democratic Watchman have worked themselves into fever heat over the ratification of the fifteenth article of Amendment, by our State Legislature. Indeed they grow furious, and attempt to frighten people by billingsgate, slang and low, vulgar abuse of good men. These gentlemen, it seems, have yet to learn that blackguardism, and low, personal abuse, cannot supply the place of argument, nor satisfy the intelligent mind. In speaking of the noble men who voted in favor of the amendment, and in favor of that good old JEFFERSON doctrine, that "All men are created equal," goes on to say:

"Our readers will doubtless want to "know the names of the infamous "crew who have afflicted this injury "upon our Commonwealth. We give "them in small type, divested of capi-"tal letters, in order that we may ap-"propriately convey an idea of the ex-"ceeding littleness of the contemptible "puppies. These are the names of "the wretches who voted in the House "of Representatives to give niggers a "right to vote in Pennsylvania."

After giving the names of these patriotic men without capitals, the Editor adds:

"Every one of the above scoundrels "are Radicals—dirty, miserable dogs "that they are."

To be called "the infamous crew," "contemptible puppies," "wretches," "scoundrels," "dirty, miserable dogs," &c., by the immaculate Editors of the Copperhead press, we have no doubt, will give the Republican members of the Legislature a great deal of uneasiness. Not so much, perhaps, as it would, if they were ignorant of the record of these scandal mongers. They recognize in the e Copperhead Editors the ears and habits of the same animal that brayed so furiously during the dark hours of the rebellion. They well remember that no epithet was too low or mean for this Copperhead, long-eared animal to heap upon the brave soldiers who so nobly engaged in the great struggle to save the nation's life.

"Lincoln hirelings," "robbers," "thieves," "cut throats," "assassins," "fratracides," "Lincoln minions," "incendiaries," "butchers," &c., are but few of the epithets applied by P. G. MEEK & Co., to the Union soldiers, while fighting to perpetuate our liberties—to save the nation, and the old flag, from disruption and disgrace.

While the Union Soldiers were abused, derided and insulted, by these men, no praise was too extravagant for every leading Rebel sympathiser in the country. VALLANDIGHAM, infamous as he made himself, by betraying his own State, and denying his own doctrine of State rights—rebel and traitor as he was—was made the tutelar deity of these men and of all the smaller lights of the party. WOODWARD who "sincerely hoped that Pennsylvania would secede and go with the South" was honored, aye, adored by these enemies of Equal rights and true Democratic Union, and has, since the war, for his treason, both to his State and Government, been rewarded by his fellow traitors and sympathisers with a seat in the Congress of the nation. Your political record is known, gentlemen, the record of your party is so treasonable, black, and damning, that your efforts to destroy the character of loyal and true men must prove futile, only returning to sink you still deeper into the mire of your own filth. Slimy reptiles are these copperheads; but perfectly harmless since deprived of their poison fangs at Appomattox Court House by GEN. GRANT and the brave boys in blue.

When Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence, declaring "that all men were created equal" and when it was signed by those immortal names that can never die, nor be forgotten so long as liberty can find a resting place on the Continent of America, the student of history will easily recall the choice epithets that were heaped upon them by the TORIES and traitors of that day—the subjects of King George the 3d.

The TORIES and friends of a Monarchical form of Government opposed, fought and derided the Declaration of Independence in 1776 with the same unchristian spirit as do now the tories, rebels and copperheads of 1869 the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution. Stand by your guns, ye noble sons of noble sires. Yield not one jot or tittle of the Magna Charta of your rights, until the truths of the Declaration of Independence are realized to the full, and until the glorious and true Democratic doctrine that "all men are created equal" are emblazoned in characters of living light, not only upon the dome of the Capitol of the nation, but upon every statute book, and State Constitution in our blood-bought and blood-redeemed National Union.

WHEN, in the march of destiny, it was impossible for the Democratic party to bind the negro any longer with the chains and shackles of slavery, and since our Democratic county Commissioners, after an outlay of over fifty thousand dollars to build a new jail, have proved themselves unable to hold a few of the lowest and wickedest of the race, how do they expect to put the heel of tyranny upon millions of colored American citizens and deprive them of their political rights?

"HAVE we a Democratic party among us?" is the inquiry of the Louisville Courier Journal. Rather doubtful, except in Kentucky. The Tammany Fourth of July operation knocked the retrogressive party to "smithereens," and the said particles have been gathered into Kentucky, where the work of resuscitation is kept up by "Bascom's whisky."

ANDREW JOHNSON, says the Phil'a. Press, has been humbling himself before the people of Knoxville. He went there for the purposes of self-exaltation, but, as usual, his lips prove his abasement. His speech is not even a respectable jabber. It lacks the coherency of a school boy, and has all the incongruities of an idiot. It were charity to call his ailment phrenitic rather than vertebral. After dividing the powers of the Government into three heads, he does not even revert to the duties of either, but indulges in his stereotyped billingsgate respecting one of them. The nearer it approaches unanimity in its deliberations and enactments the more danger he sees in its existence. He meanly taunts the negroes with having set them free, yet makes himself their equal by showing them that he is a slave. He glories in the fact that his reputation is unstained with the blood of either enemy or friend, and in the next breath vents his spleen upon the bondholders, "who never shed a drop of blood." What is a virtue in him is damnable in them. But he caps the climax of the occasion and exhibits the inward promptings of the whole man by the blasphemous imprecation "I would to God that the Government had not had the credit to borrow a dollar to carry on the war." Much as the nation has suffered from the presence in high places of this seditious monster, it is just beginning to learn his true character While an incumbent of office there was some inducement to conceal his hypocrisy, but now the fear of stultification and disgrace has no longer any terrors for him. Though the people endured the tortures of his Presidency for nearly four years, they may well rejoice at what they have escaped at his hands.

THE New York Commercial speaks of one of the "tricks of the trade" as follows: "The banks still plead poverty. They are receiving little from the South or any other section, and some are sending money to Philadelphia. The remittances to that city do not appear to be in the way of ordinary exchanges, and are suspected to be intended for a specific purpose. Indeed, Philadelphia has become a sort of safe for the convenience of parties taking money off the market. The operation saves the odium attached to the old methods of "locking up," and has the appearance of being a legitimate movement. A respectable banking house can therefore engage in it without loss of prestige; this immunity, however, is not likely to be continued after a few repetitions of the trick."

THE PUBLIC DEBT.—The forthcoming statement of the public debt, which shows a considerable reduction in the Government indebtedness, will contain a new feature of great public interest, but not calculated to strengthen the standing of the Pacific Railroads. It is a table giving the amount of Government bonds issued to these various roads, amount of interest thereon paid by the Government and the amount of this interest reimbursed by the roads to the National Treasury. The people supposed these roads, so largely subsidized by bonds and lands, have at least paid their own interest, but this statement will prove the contrary, and indeed show they have not half paid it. The exact figures have not got out, but Secretary Boutwell's exhibit will be worth careful examination.

A BILL is before the New Jersey Legislature which seeks to break a will made by a husband who left certain property to his wife to be hers so long as she remained a widow. The widow married again, and the object of the bill is to secure to her the property which by the will goes to others. It would be a glorious thing if every State could pass such a law. Of all selfishness that which would force a woman to remain a widow or become a beggar, is the meanest. The wife aids the husband in accummulating his money, and she is just as much entitled to a portion, absolutely, as he is, and if, on his death, he attempts to impose conditions upon his widow, the Legislature should step in and thwart such injustice. If New Jersey shall pass such a law she will set a good example to all her sister States.

PROPORTION OF DRINKERS.—A St. Louis physician is responsible for the following figures: Taking the population of this country at forty million—of 300 men, 122 never drink spirits at all; 100 drink moderately, but not to intoxication; 50 are ephemeral drinkers; 25 drink periodically, called "spreeing;" and three are habitual inebriates. Of 700 women, 600 never taste alcoholics of any kind; 30 taste wine occasionally; 17 taste ardent spirits; 30 drink ale or beer constantly; 14 drink ardent spirits periodically; and 3 are habitual inebriates. Fewer women drink than men, but a larger proportion of them become habitual drinkers.

MINISTER Gladstone's bill for the disestablishment of the Irish Church has carried in the British House of Commons by a majority of 118. It provides that the Irish people shall no longer be compelled to support the church of England against their will. We hope it may pass the House of Lords, but of this there is great doubt.

HON. Russel Errett, Senator from Allegheny county, we see it stated, will resign his seat and accept the position of United States Assessor for the 22nd District. Senator Errett has served two years in the Senate of Pennsylvania, and is one of the purest, ablest and most useful members of that body.

Senator Sumner on the Alabama Claims.

[Washington Correspondence Cincinnati Gazette.

There is great anxiety in all circles to see the speech which Mr. Sumner has prepared to deliver in executive session against the Alabama treaty. This speech is about finished, and the Senator's friends say he considers it the greatest effort of his life. Some of the strongest points of it having been made public, much to Mr. Sumner's annoyance, he insists that it is a most pacific speech, while at the same time it takes "high ground."

The "high ground" consists in saying plainly to England that she is indebted to the United States for ships destroyed, for years of commerce swept away, for heavy bills incurred in maintaining an immense blockade, for troubles and damages along the Canadian frontier, and more than all, and worse than all, the prolongation of the war and the consequent expenses in life and treasure. The pacific part, so far as can be learned, consists in saying to Great Britain: These things are plain, they need no proof, and the way to settle it all is to sit down in friendly spirit and agree upon fair terms based on the above admissions.

There is no concealing the fact that several questions are creating anxiety at the English legislation now. The most prominent of these is the settlement of the Alabama claims, and in this connection both the position of Mr. Sumner and the known agreement between the points as above given from his speech and the views of President Grant have entirely dispelled any idea of settlement upon any such basis as proposed by Reverdy Johnson.

To complicate this the increasing interest, both here and in Canada, in the question of annexation, looms up as a question soon to assume a definite character and purpose, and to rally a strong party in the provinces.

There seems to be a general belief among the representatives of foreign powers that the present Administration will be marked by a very positive foreign policy and that before it is ended there will be important changes in the relation of our Northern and Southern neighbors to the United States.

[Special Telegraph to The Press.]

WASHINGTON, April 4. 1869.

General Longstreet.

After a stormy executive session of the Senate, General James B. Longstreet was confirmed as Surveyor of the Port of New Orleans, by a vote of 25 to 10, but one more than a quorum vote. The Louisiana Senators were divided, Kellogg favoring and Harris opposing. Cameron made a bitter opposition. Brownlow endorsed his language and strongly protested against the confirmation. When the vote was taken several Senators paired off, and it was lucky for Longstreet the vote was had at the time, as in a few minutes more the Senate would have been left without a quorum, the Senators dropping out one by one. Warner, of Alabama, made an earnest and eloquent speech in favor of the confirmation, pointing out the good effect it would have through out the South. The majority of the Southern Senators also favored Longstreet, and he was eventually confirmed. The General is in the city, and is residing on Tenth street opposite Ford's Theatre.

THE female lobbyists are becoming a nuisance and a disgrace in Washington. The Boston Herald correspondent says: "They have advanced on the Capitol of late in greater force than ever, and have even commenced to lay seige to members and Senators at their boarding houses. The other day I asked the Door-keeper of the House, who is opposite the ladies reception room, how many women had sent in cards in one day to members, and he replied three hundred and eleven! The notorious Mrs. Cobb is a daily visitor, circulating in the corridors and lobbies of the Senate and House and plying her vocation of a lobbyist. Perhaps, from this standpoint, all that Mr. Sprague has said about the social condition of things is true here."

Two of the members of the jury which convicted Twitchell have made an affidavit to the statement that they joined in the verdict under the belief that the Court commanded them to return a verdict in half an hour. They add that the impression was general among the jury that they had no other course to pursue but to return a verdict of guilty in the time specified by the Judge, who, it seems, said to the jury "the Court will wait half an hour for the verdict." We presume the same "intelligent" jurors would return a verdict in three minutes if the Court expressed an intention to "wait" only that length of time upon their decision.

THE Democratic State Central Committee met in this city, at the Bolton House yesterday evening, and determined upon Wednesday, the 14th of July, as the time for holding the Democratic State Convention. They will have saved their party a good deal of blatherskiting and expense, besides very general dissapointment in the final result, by refusing to fix any time, and advising their friends to surrender at discretion by placing no candidates in the field.—Telegraph March 31st.

THE oldest Mason in the United States is Mr. Alexander John on father of Ex-Gov. Wm. F. Johnson, who lives in Greensburg, Westmoreland county, Pa., who is now in his ninety-sixth year. He has been a Master Mason seventy-four years.

AN exchange, discussing the appointment of Gen. Longstreet, says that he is the most unpopular of all the rebel commanders in the South to-day. It adds: "His unpopularity however, is only for a day; in another generation it will be seen how truly wise and great he has been." We doubt if a single individual of all the number who profess to despise his course can be found who does not acknowledge to himself that in braving public opinion in the South, General Longstreet has displayed greater courage than he who advances to the cannon's mouth. Longstreet's reputation for bravery on the field sinks into insignificance when campared with his moral courage.

EGYPTIAN CORN! EGYPTIAN CORN!

Auspicium melioris ævi. Ivis fide. Quid pro quo!

THE subscriber offers to farmers throughout the country, the which upon trial, was found to ripen, planted the last of July. It is estimated, from its very prolific qualities, to yield 150 bushels per acre, and weighs, by sealed measure, sixty-five pounds to the bushel. This corn was produced by some procured direct from Mr. Jones our consular agent, directly on his return from Egypt.

It needs no different culture from that of other varieties, and in the South two crops can be raised in one season on the same ground. It grows in the form of a tree, and thirty-four ears have grown upon one stalk, and will average from five to fifteen. For domestic use it is unsurpassed. When ground and properly bolted, it is equal in color and fineness to wheaten flour. As a forage crop, by sowing in drills or broadcast, for early feed, there is no kind of corn so well adapted to milch cows, and none that will yield half the value of stalk corn.

It can be successfully grown in any State.

I give the most satisfactory references that the corn is, in every respect what I represent it to be; and further I am the only person throughout the country who has this corn. Having secured a quantity, I am now able to fill all orders for those desirous of testing it.

TERMS.—In order that all may receive seed we have reduced the price to one dollar and fifty cents a package. Any person who will get up a club of five will receive a package gratis—Fifteen packages for $10. Fifty packages for $25. One hundred packages for $50. One package will contain enough to plant the following season from twenty to thirty acres; also directions for planting and cultivating.

THE SECRET OF HAPPINESS.

Some folks are always fretting,
Will their trouble never cease?
Will nothing ever bring them
The blessed boon of peace?

To peace and true contentment
The way is very plain,
And if you'll pay attention
The secret I'll explain.

Smith's home was all confusion,
His wife would scold and fret,
And such a scene I really think
I never shall forget.

His wife would spank the children,
And chase them off to bed;
Set down, and cry as women do,
And wish that she were dead.

She'd call her husband awful names,
A "measly horrid man,"
And if he "didn't change his ways"
She'd "get right home to mam."

When Smith returned to bed one night,
He'd scarcely time to close his eyes—
He vowed he'd end this foolish fight—
Have peace at home once more.

Ere long the neighbors noticed
His wife had changed her tone,
And Smith was "gay and happy,"
For he'd bought an "Our Old Home."

Now his wife is every smiling,
And all he wrath has flown;
And she calls her husband "darling,"
For he's bought an "Our Old Home."

Smith says his "wife has really
The sweetest temper known,"
And everything is lovely
Since he's bo't an "Our Old Home."

And now he takes his comfort;
He's found happiness at last,
And sunbeams bright and glancy
Around his way are cast.

This celebrated Stove is for sale by LONBERGER & HENRY, No. 4, Bush's Arcade. mar31'69-tf. Bellefonte, Pa.

Local Department.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, April 7, '69.

THE Drug Store of F. P. Green was removed, on April 1st, 1869, from Brockerhoff's row, to the new Hotel of Bush & McLain, over the creek. Jan. 2 tf.

FARM FOR SALE.—Bond Valentine offers his splendid farm, of 195 acres, with in one and a half miles of Bellefonte, for sale. For full particulars, inquire of Mr. Valentine, or at the office of the REPUBLICAN.

TOWN LOTS.—John Cole, Esq., advertises forty-two town lots for sale in Coleville near the fair grounds. Here is a fine opportunity for our workingmen and mechanics to procure for themselves a home.

REMOVAL.—On the 1st day of April, Jesse Klinger, Justice of the Peace, removed his office to the basement room in the Vandyke building, on the North side of the diamond, directly opposite the Court House. He dispenses justice with out fear, favor or affection.

LIVERY STABLE.—Isaac Lose & Son have entered into partnership in the livery business. Isaac is one of our oldest, as well as one of our best citizens. Lose & Son have determined to keep the best of stock, and to hire it out at reasonable rates. They should be well patronized. See advertisement.

JOB WORK.—If you want posters, billheads, letter heads, paper books, professional cards, circulars, plain or fancy printing, call at the office of the Bellefonte REPUBLICAN. We will do your work according to promise, and at the appointed time. Prices as reasonable as at any office in the District.

The would be gentleman who purloined three tickets for the B. A. L. S. entertainment, from a show case, in a certain store in this town is known, and if he does not wish his name to appear before the public, will do well to remit the price of the same, by mail, to the Treasurer of the B. A. L. S., before the next issue of this paper.

PINE GROVE MILLS ACADEMY & SEMINARY.—We are pleased to learn that this school, which was formerly under the direction of Prof. Thomas, is to be re-opened to-day, by Mr. B. F. Hughes, formerly of Gettysburg. Since this school was closed by Prof. Thomas, the people have felt the need of such an institution in their midst, and now, that it is to be re-opened, we wish to express our hopes of its success.

BOOTS & SHOES.—Pat McAffrey & Co have just received a large stock of boots and shoes for the Spring and Summer trade. Mr. McAffrey is a practical workman, and when he does buy city made work, selects none but the very best. It is hard for city dealers to impose on practical workmen in this respect. Pat is determined not to be undersold. He sells cheap, and guarantees his work.—He is always ready to wait upon customers. Give him a call.

LONEBARGER & HENRY.—By reference to our advertising columns, it will be seen that Loneberger & Henry have entered into partnership in the tin-ware and stove business. They have removed their store to the room formerly occupied by G. W. Fairer, in Bush's Arcade Building. Both of these gentlemen are so well known in this community, that no encomiums from us are necessary.—They are sole agents for the sale of "Our Old Home," and "Good Manners" cook stoves—the most complete cook-stoves, we think, that have ever been offered in this market. Call and examine for yourselves.

FROM CENTRE CITY.—The Centre City High School closed March 24. The examination was a perfect success. The school has been under the tuition of F. W. Campbell, a worthy and efficient teacher. This being the case of the first graded school of Boggs tp., the house was crowded with citizens from different parts of the county, and after listening to the exercises, consisting of declamations, songs and the reading of a paper, Edited by the school, all felt amply compensated for their visit. The school is an honor to the township. The scholars acquitted themselves honorably; in fact, beyond the most sanguine expectations of those present. W. G.

BURNSIDES & THOMAS.—This firm have now received their Spring stock of boots and shoes, which are warranted, and are superior to all others, having been made to their special order. Leather, fish, groceries, findings, and a thousand other things. They are prepared to offer a better stock than any other house in the trade. The many friends of this popular establishment know, from past experience, that they are never swindled, and their goods are always what the proprietors claim for them. They never misrepresent an article to effect a sale.—We would advise our readers to go to this well known establishment to make their purchases, if they want to save money and get good articles. †

MASKS.—If we could only read each other's hearts, we should be kinder to each other. If we knew the woes and bitterness and physical annoyances of our neighbors, we should make allowances for them which we do not now.—We go about masked, uttering stereotyped sentiments, hiding our heart pangs and headaches as carefully as we can; and yet the wonder that others do not discover them by intuition; we do not so conceal our resentments and our dislikes, of which we are prone to be proud. Often two people sit close together, with "I love you" in either heart, and neither knows it. Each thinks "I could be fond; but what use of wasting fondness on one who does not care for it?" And so they part, and go their ways alone. Life is a masquerade, at which few unmask, even to their dearest. And though there is need of much masking, would to Heaven we dared to show plainly our real faces from birth to death, for then some few, at least, would truly love each other. This is old, but true.

HOGS.—What has become of the hog-law? No grunter should be permitted to run at large

NOT YET.—We notice that no effort has yet been made to repair the fence around the Court House. What do the Court House officers mean?

CLEAN UP.—We hope our Street-Commissioner will lose no time in cleaning up the streets and alleys of our city.—A clean city is always a healthy one.

WE notice that the Beaver Radical is publishing a highly interesting (?) and somewhat amusing history of Dr A. W. Atchison, late of the 140th Pa Vol's.

COMING.—"Winter lingers in the lap of Spring," nevertheless the time for Spring is here The cold Stormy weather will soon be over. Work in the gardens will soon commence.

NEW PAVEMENTS.—In many parts of the city the pavements are in a terrible condition. If the owners of the property will not repair them, let the city fathers take the work in hand.

NOT ROOM.—We have not room to report the proceedings of the Temperance meeting held in the Court House April 5th The audience was not as large as it should have been. Rev Jas Mullen delivered a most excellent address.

A SPRIGHTLY, spunky youth named Will. Whipple, of beaver, sprung a bloody beak in the back of his left forearm while practicing on a turning pole at the National Hotel last Friday afternoon. The breach in the flesh was about two inches long, one inch wide, and down to the bone, when we saw it, immediately afterward. Will had an idea that a small steak was torn out of the place, and was afraid to go home with such a rent in him for fear he would scare his mother. Dr. Boardman came, however, squeezed the gash into homœopathic dimensions, and persuaded the boy to go home and have a few ball cotter stitches put into it, and have it tied up. He is getting well without a whimper.—Beaver Radical.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.—In another column of the REPUBLICAN will be seen the advertisement of Messrs. Rankin & Irwin These gentlemen are Agents of a number of the most reliable Life and Fire Insurance Companies in the United States. They also deal extensively in real estate—selling farms, houses and lots. Western and Southern lands, &c.—They are clever men, and attend punctually to business. Mr. Rankin, in addition to the real estate and insurance business, is engaged in the practice of the law. He is a good lawyer—a safe counsellor, and an honest man. Persons, therefore, wishing legal advice—their lives or property insured—or those who have real estate to sell, would do well, and save money, by calling upon the firm of Rankin & Irwin.

DON'T KILL THE BIRDS.—We scarcely ever hear a bird sing; in fact they dare not tune their throats for fear of a brave man, armed with a gun, who prowls over meadow and mound ready at the least gush of music, to tear the warbler to pieces with leaden rain. We kill the birds and then complain of the scarcity of fruit. Let the birds live, and they will protect and increase our fruit crop; nay, they will add to the production of other crops, for we verily believe that the increase of pestiferous insects of all kinds, is owing to the decrease of birds. When birds were plenty, we never heard of great crop-failures produced by insects, such as now derange the markets of the country, and impose heavy burdens on the people. It is not only fruit but grain, of all kinds is imperilled by the absence of birds to protect it. Let the farmers in habitants of our fields and woods live—give them a chance to increase, and their services will amply repay by it all man for the lives he spares.

NOT WELL POSTED.—The man who don't take the papers was in town this week. He called at our office to get some postage stamps principally saying that they wanted to charge him three cents apiece for them at the post office and he wouldn't stand no such imposterin." We tried to get him to subscribe for the REPUBLICAN, but he said he couldn't afford it—only had three dollars, and was entirely out of smoking tobacco and whiskey From our office, he started out to see the town. He stopped in front of Patton's jewelry store, and set his "bulleye" by the watch sign over the door, then stepped into F. S. Wilson's drug store, and called for a glass of gin and sugar. Being told of his mistake, he passed on, stopping in front of Loeb, May & Loeb's store to wipe his nose on a piece of carpet which was hanging out, from there he passed round to Breckbill's furniture ware room where he examined a cradle, and inquired the price of "that doughtrough." Seeing Capt. Cook, Cyrus Strickland, and some engineers at work on the street with their instruments, he stepped up and inquired "what they'd charge to take his picture." Passing by Captain Fryberger's tobacco store, he attempted to shake hands with the "big Ingin" in front of the door, whom he took to be a squaw, and inquired of her whether she didn't feel cold, with her neck all bare this weather. Noticing the omnibus, belonging to the Brokerhoff House, he inquired where the circus was, and while traveling in search of it, he encountered a boy on the street, distributing Ayer's medical almanac, and paid him twenty-five cents for a copy. He bought a two-quart crock at Captain Ruckle's grocery store, and took it down to the gas-works to get it filled with gas, saying, he had "heered it was a darn sight cheaper'n tallor or coal oil." When we last saw him, he was taking the overland route for Tamaque, Pa., with a pocketful of five-cent nickels, which some sharper had put on him for gold pieces, telling him greenbacks were "played out." We commend him to the mercy of the Editors of the Tamaqua Journal, and hope they may succeed in getting him to subscribe for their spicy and well-filled paper. We have no further use for him in this county; and we are really glad he is gone, for he almost invariably votes the Democratic ticket.

THE advantages accruing to our farmers by the introduction of superior breeds of stock of every kind, are just beginning to be appreciated by our people. Good stock is kept, and reared more easily and cheaply, than the deteriorated and common stock which our farming community generally possess. When grown, it is worth twice as much. Our farmers are just beginning to see this. They are beginning to offer some encouragement to importers of good stock. All such, who apply soon, are offered the very best chances to improve their stock of horses, as will be seen by referring to the advertisement of W. D Rikard, of the Cummings House, who has imported a horse of the finest blood and quality ever introduced here. Let all our horse raisers make it a point to see Lew Pettit before deciding upon their selection of stock.—See new advertisement.

BAD PRACTICE.—You might as well expect to relieve and cure an inflamed eye by dusting irritating powders into it as to expect to subdue and cure Catarrh (which is an inflammation of the mucous membrane of the air passage in the head) by the use of irritating snuffs or strong, caustic solutions. Dr Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures Catarrh by its mild, soothing action which subdues the inflammation and restores the natural secretion of the mucous follicles. It is a pleasant remedy, its use being attended and followed by a cooling and agreeable sensation. The proprietor, R V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo N Y., offers $500 for a case of Catarrh that he can not cure. Sent by mail on receipt of Sixty Cents. Address the proprietor as above.

For sale by most Druggists everywhere.

JUBILEE.—It is with pleasure we chronicle the great success of our Lutheran friends, in their jubilee and collation, held in the Academy, in Boalsburg, on the 25th and 26th of March On Thursday evening, as soon as the doors were opened, the people commenced flocking in by scores, until the large lecture room of the Academy building was crowded to overflowing. Every face was covered with smiles, and every heart swelled with emotion, while the class of youthful singers sung a number of beautiful christian songs. The sweet voices of the youth, in unison with the harmonious strains of the musical instruments, were not only delightful, but charming Tears of joy were seen streaming down many a cheek, while the performers sang of happiness—of God—of Jesus—of life everlasting—of heaven, the christian's home.

At the same time the upper school-room of the Academy was crowded, and a collation consisting of chicken, ham, ice-cream, apples, pies, and cakes of every variety. A very large and fine cake, presented by Mrs. S. H. Stover, for the occasion, was placed upon the "bidding stand," and the bidding commenced in good earnest. Many and numerous were the bids, until the cake was bid up to thirty five dollars and thirty cents, when it fell into the hands of the Union Sabbath School

There was also a post-office established in the room which, owing to the good management of the Post Mistress, paid well. All passed off pleasantly, and the handsome sum of $138 00 were collected—sufficient to purchase a handsome library.

The thanks of the Lutheran Sabbath School were given to the friends of the Union Sabbath School, for their kindness and assistance, and their liberality in aiding to swell the proceeds of the jubilee.

Our Boalsburg and Harris township people know how to do things handsomely. They deserve great credit for the interest they manifest in favor of every good cause.

Philadelphia Markets.

WEDNESDAY, Apr 7, 1869.

FLOUR.—The Flour markets continues quiet, but holders of good brands of spring wheat families are indifferent about realizing at prices below those now current. There is very little inquiry for winter wheat flour, and our quotation are barely sustained; the sales foot up 1,600 barrels including superfine at $1 25@5,50; extras at $6@6,50; Iowa, Wisconsin, and Minnesota extra family at 6,50@7.25, Pennsylvania do do. at $7@7.75; Ohio do. do. at $8@9,25; and fancy brands at $9,50@12, according to quality. Rye Flour commands $7,50@8₱ barrel. Nothing doing in Corn Meal.

WHEAT—White at full prices, Red at $1,60@1,70; amber at $1,85.

Special Notices.

"THE CALORIFIC"—This is, without doubt, the most complete and in all respects the most desirable Cooking Stoves of the age. To give some idea of the peculiarities of the Stove in question we may state that, by a highly scientific and patent arrangement, the excessive heat on the top of the stove, which causes the center pieces to burn out, is carried around the oven, equalizing the heat of the stove and causing the bottom of the oven to be just as hot as the top part of the stove. By this arrangement, therefore, all danger of burning out the center pieces (equal to all other cooking stoves) is effectually obviated. What is more, the fire and oven can be easily regulated to any degree of heat by means of this patent arrangement, thus avoiding the necessity of giving the stove constant attention while baking in order to prevent its becoming too hot or too cold. There are not half the advantages of this store. We will have more to say of it soon. At present we can only add that it surpasses all other cook stoves ever offered in this or any other market. For sale by ISAAC HAUPT.

TAKE A LOOK AT THE SIGNS.—All men of business within the range of this and adjoining counties, when they visit Bellefonte, should not fail to inspect the splendid signs of the First National Bank, Reynolds & Co's. Bank, and Zimmerman Bro's. & Co; also the numerous smaller professional "shingles" scattered over the town. Also the sign of the Brockerhoff House, all executed by our friend, and late editor and publisher of the Central Press, JOHN G. KURTZ. WEDNESDAY MORNING, Apr. 7, '69.

For the REPUBLICAN.

Mr. Hog.

The individual whose name heads this article, is a very old citizen, he was born shortly after Adam, and from that memorable period down to the present time the hog family have been steadily on the increase, he lives here and everywhere, or rather stays, to the annoyance and displeasure of all decent folks. We know him, you know him and every body knows him. This creature has two legs and wears hair, and bears a striking resemblance to the human family. But never in the world has he been known to do a human act. We find him in all stations and situations in life, sometimes we find him a member of the church, with a long, lean vinegar face, a sunday christian, and every day rogue. When he finds a torn and mutilated shin-plaster, he goes to church and occupies a conspicuous seat, and hands in his ragged mite to the Lord. Generous hog, pious hog, prince of hogs, hog of all hogs, d—d hog. If you were to use up the whole of the multiplication table in order to ascertain how many such souls as his w'ld be necessary to fill up the vacancy in a hollow horse hair, you would be no nearer the mark when done than when you begun. His face continually wears a troubled expression. This is easily accounted for. He is trying to solve in his wee small mind what quantity of thin diet is necessary to keep life in his children, he would be sorry to have them die, this would incur the necessary expense of burying them. Noble hog! Oh! matchless hog! He has never been known to do a generous act in all his life. He lives by his own meanness, and has over abundance to live upon. Conscience with him is a stranger. His insignificent soul would be blistered all over with perjury if it stood a matter of three cents in his favor. Oh! soulless, pusillanimous hog! His contemptible meanness often enables him to succeed well in a pecuniary point of view, and he accumulates considerable property, if he has a small pen to rent—which for effect he calls a house—he rents it to the highest bidder. If this should happen to be a poor widow woman, and the rent falls due on the day she has a child laying dead in the house, you will find the old hog on hand to receive it, if she should fail to come promptly to time, he would be mean enough to drive her from the door and tare the shroud from off the dead child in pay for the use of his filthy kennel. Oh! thou desertable hog! He would not lend a dollar to his mother, if she were starving to death. You will find him continually poking his nose into other folks business, and trying to make everybody appear meaner than himself. This, however, he finds impossible to do. He never has a good word to speak of any one, and no one has ever yet accused him of telling the truth. He is not capable of speaking, looking, or thinking decent. When others furnish liquor you will find him beastly drunk, and hear him rail out against the use of intoxicating liquors. He sees nothing honest or honorable outside of the hog family. He looks very much displeased if another man happens to embark in any kind of business that might conflict with his own. The filthy hog thinks the world was made expressly for him and all other hogs. He wouldn't help a decent man out of a difficulty under any consideration, he would rather help him into one. We challenge the world to produce one instance where this low born, ill-bred hog ever done a praiseworthy act. Hunt up the records and you will find nothing but mean, selfish hoggishness. If his neighbor happens to be a man of an enterprising spirit, and generous heart, (of which this town has a goodly number) who is willing "to do unto others as they should do unto him" and is engaged in any kind of improvement which his penurious soul would not permit him to undertake, he looks on with a jealous, envious countenance, and secretly hopes he may fail. Oh! thou green eyed monster! Don't imagine for one moment when you meet the writer of this, and pass him unnoticed, that you have slighted him, for the grunt of a hog has no charms for him. You mean, sniveled up creature, upon your hoggish face is seen the sentiment of your small, mean, cruel selfish soul. You were born mean, have lived mean, and shall die mean, and tears of joy will be shed as you are being borne from our midst, and may the turf wither upon your grave. It would be a pity if the little songsters should ever come to sing their sweet songs above your mean and filthy carcase, the vultures of the air would turn from it in disgust, and the worms of the earth would harm it not; and in the plainest kind of characters, and on the rudest slab we'll write:

Beneath this slab they've laid him down,
He'll grunt no more again.
He died with nought but hog renown,
With hog upon the brain.

We have no mercy, no sympathy, no pity for this contemptable beast, and should this article meet his gaze, may it flash conviction to his miserable soul, and prove a benefit to the human hog fraternity in general.

U. B DARNED.

THE wheat does not look as well throughout our country, and the crops not as promising as they did this time last year. So we are told.

Micellaneous.

THE speech of Mr. Beecher at the meeting in New York sympathizing with the cause of Cuba, was forcible and eloquent. Here is a sample: "The Government, from the Captain General down to the lowest officer, is shared by no natives. The island is used as I use a whet stone, to make my axe sharp. There is no appeal from the Governor General there. He is as despotic as Nero of old. Since 1825 Cuba has been under military government and martial law has existed in the island. It is strange that within a whisper of our Southern shore there should rule such despotism unchecked—in an island, too, which is governed by foreign laws. This is scarcely conceived by Americans. I hold that Cuba has a right to self government. If she has a right to throw off despotism, she has a right to throw off Spanish despotism. She has a right to her independence because all her past is like a night-mare dream."

SOME silly people, the other day, says the Tribune, believed for an hour or two that Mr. Johnson was dead. We are quite sure none of our readers could have been among those thus deceived. They all knew better. They must have felt, when they read the dispatches, that Mr. Johnson himself would speedily furnish the refutation, by making a speech, calling on the country to remember the round of his characters from Alderman to President, properly reprobating any display of egotism, and demanding what sin he had ever committed, whose ox he had coveted, or whose ass he had been. And, sure enough, the news now comes to us in authentic, not to say official speech. Mr. Johnson is better and able to make a speech. He is to be heard forthwith at Knoxville, at Nashville, at Memphis, and Louisville, in defens. of the Flag with Thirty-six Stars and in distribution of the Constitution of our Fathers.

THE UNKINDEST CUT OF ALL.—Brick Pomeroy says that "Gen. Hancock declines to be considered a candidate for the Democracy Gubernatorial nomination in Pennsylvania. This will be very fortunate for the Democracy there. This is very unkind in "Brick," after the self abasement poor Hancock has undergone to serve the Democracy. Then "Brick" should exercise more caution, because, to decline a nomination a la Seymour, has become chronic with democratic aspirants for office. "Your candidate I cannot be" has played an important part heretofore and the same dodge may meet with a like success on a smaller scale. "Brick," in the light of the above, would cut a sorry figure next Fall advising the Democracy of this State to "support the gallant Hancock." But then "flopdoodles" are Brick's sforte.—Meadville Republican.

THE Democrats in the House of Representatives, with the aid of 49 Republicans, succeeded on the 27th inst., in overpowering the 70 Republicans who believed the legislation that led to the impeachment trial sound and wise, and were anxious to maintain it. The Tenure-of Office act was thus rejected as it came from the Senate. We are not likely to have, in that body, a square vote on repeal of the law.

THE Chicago Journal thinks that in view of Andy Johnson having commenced life as a tailor, he can retrospectively exclaim:

"When I thinks of what I am.
And what I used to was,
I think I've thrown myself away
Without sufficient cuz."

"REMEMBER whom you are talking to, sir!" said an indignant parent to a fractious boy; "I am your father, sir!" "Well, who's to blame for that?" said impertinence; "'taint me!"

"WHAT are you trying to do, now, Tom!"

"To mount this horse."

"Ah! how do you get on?"

"That's just the point I'm trying to settle."

IT is stated that out of 1,000 published books, 600 never pay the cost of printing, 200 just pay expenses, 100 return a slight profit, and only 100 show substantial gains.

WHAT is the difference between a good soldier and a fashionble young lady? One faces the powder and the other powders the face.

THERE is a firm in Elgin, Illinois, known as "Gray and Lunt." half the letters come to them directed "Lay & Grunt."

WHY is a fashionable young lady's rains like a speckled trout? Because they are found under a waterfall.

THE man who beat the drum for the "march of time," has gone to play on the "horn of plenty.

THE man who "couldn't stand it any longer," has taken a seat, and now feels quite comfortable.

IN California there is one woman to three men; in Nevada, one to eight; in Colorada, one to twenty.

GOOD breeding shows itself most when, to an ordinary eye, it appears the least.

THE more any one speaks of himself, the less he likes to hear another talked of.

WE are not worthy of loving truth when we can love anything more than that.

THEFTS never enrich; alms never impoverish; prayers hinder no work.

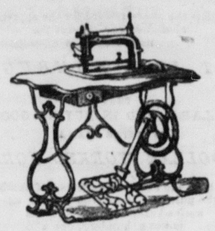
AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE OVER SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.



In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far in advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may requite. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages already fully its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful BUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at
